

Dr Alweena Awan

PhD; B.Ed. honours; KFRP; Associate DPA; Teacher; Lecturer

Dr Awan taught for twenty three years in various schools and received her Doctorate in “Raising Children’s Learning and Performance in Schools” in 2007. She also worked as lecturer training teachers at Leeds Beckett University and has worked as an advisor and trainer in many schools internationally.

Dr Awan is the Founder and International Director of The Child Centre Method- Learning and Behaviour Program®. The program is the culmination of years of research and development in the area of child development. The Child Centre Method® is a systematic, integrated program that allows the practitioner to firstly identify the individual challenges that each student faces and secondly, to create a unique program for that individual.

Alweena is a published author on the subject of physical literacy and child development. As well as training teachers and staff in education, she runs a centre that works with children and teenagers individually. The centre provides formal reports and assessments for schools with children who have learning, emotional or behavioural issues, as well as diagnostic assessment reports for schools. Dr Awan has worked in schools, private institutes and universities in England and internationally.

Training facilities are at Holly House, Spring Gardens Lane, Keighley. BD20 6LE
